Read It

As an archaeologist plans an excavation, they map it out in a grid pattern. As they dig in each of the grids, they map out their results on a paper grid.

Try It

If an archaeologist were to excavate your bedroom, what would they learn?

Think about the layout of your bedroom.

- Where are the doors and windows?
- Where is your bed?
- What other items are in your bedroom?

Draw It

Use the grid system to draw a map of your bedroom. What would be found in each grid square? Share your findings to someone in your home.
